

The Historie of Prince. Well, here is my legge.

Fals. And here is my speech: stand aside Nobilitie.

Ho. O Iesu, this is excellent sport, yfayth.

Fal. Weepe not sweet Queene, for trickling teares are vaine.

Ho. O the father, how he holdes his countenance?

Fal. For Gods sake Lords, conuey my trustfull Queene:
For teares doe stop the flood-gates of her eyes.

Ho. O Iesu, he doth it as like one of these harlotry Players, as euer I see.

Fal. Peace good Pint-pot, peace good tickle braine.

Harry, I doe not onely maruell where thou spendest thy time, but also, how thou art accompanied: For though the Cammomille the more it is troden, the faster it growes; yet youth, the more it is wasted, the sooner it weares: thou art my sonne, I haue partly thy mothers word, partly my opinion; but chiefly, a villanous trick of thine eye, and a foolish hanging of thy neather lip, that doth warrant me: If then thou be sonne to me, here lieth the point; why, being sonne to me, art thou so poynted at? shall the blessed sonne of heauen proue a micher, and eate Black-berries? a question not to be askt. Shall the Sonne of England proue a thiefe, and take purses? a question to be askt. There is a thing, Harry, which thou hast often heard of, and it is knowne to many in our land, by the name of Pitch; this Pitch (as ancient writers do report) doth defile? so doth the company thou keepest: For Harry, now I do not speake to thee in drinke, but in teares:
not in pleasure, but in passion; not in wordes onely, but in woes also: and yet there is a vertuous man, whom I haue often noted in thy company, but I know not his name.

Prin. What manner of man, and it like your Maiestie?

Fal. A goodly partly man yfaith, & a corpulent, of a cheer-full look, a pleasing eye, & a most noble cariage, & as I thinke, his age some fifty, or birlady, inclining to threescore, and now I remember me, his name is Falstaffe: if that man shold be lewdly giuen, he deceiues me. For Harry, I see vertue in his lookes; if then the tree may be knowne by the fruite, as the fruite by the tree, then peremptorily I speake it, there is vertue in that Fal-staffe, him keepe with, the rest banish: and tell mee now, thou naughty varlet, tell mee, where hast thou been this month?

Prince,

Henry the fourth.

Prin. Dost thou speake like a King? doe thou stand for mee, and Ile play my father.

Fal. Depose me, if thou dost it halfe so grauely, so maiestically both in word and matter, hang mee vp by the heeles for a Rabbit-sucker, or a Poulters Hare.

Prin. Well, heere I am set.

Fal. And heere I stand, iudge my maisters.

Prin. Now Harry, whence come you?

Fal. My noble Lord, from Eastcheape.

Prin. The complaints I heare of thee, are grieuous.

Fal. Zbloud my Lord, they are false: nay, Ile tickle ye for a young Prince yfaith.

Prin. Swearest thou, vngracious Boy? henceforth nere looke on me, thou art violently carried away from grace, there is a Di-uell hauntes thee in the likenesse of a fat old Man, a tun of man is thy companion: why dost thou conuerse with that trunke of humors, that boulding hutch of beastlinesse, that swolne parcel of Dropsies, that huge bombard of Sacke, that stuft Cloke-bag of guttes, that roasted Manning tree Oxe with the Pudding in his belly, that reuerent Vice, that gray Iniquitie, that father Ruffian, that vanity in yeares: wherein is he good, but to taste Sacke and drinke it? wherein neate and clenly, but to carue a Capon & eate it? wherein cunning, but in Craft? wherein crastie, but in Villanie? wherein villanous, but in all things? wherein worthy, but in nothing?

Fal. I would your Grace would take mee with you: whom meanes your Grace?

Prin. That villanous abhominable misleader of youth, Fal-staffe, that old white-bearded Sathan.

Fal. My Lord, the man I know. Prin. I know thou dost.

Fal. But to say, I know more harme in him then in my selfe, were to say more then I know: that he is old (the more the pit-tie) his white haire do witnesse it: but that he is (sauing your re-uerence) a whoremaster, that I vtterly deny: if Sacke & Sugar be a fault, God helpe the wicked: if to be old and merie be a sinne, then many an old Host that I know, is damn'd: if to be fatte, be to be hated, then Pharaos leane Kine are to be loued.
No, my good Lord, banish Peto, banish Bardol, banish Poine; but
